Dewitt McGinness, son of Postmaster and Mrs. F. P. McGinness, is in Carthage spending several days with his parents. Mr. McGinness, who is an experienced pharmacist, first left Carthage about five years ago going to San Antonio, Tex., thence to San Francisco, Calif., and from there to Honolulu. After remaining in the Hawaiian Islands for several months Mr. McGinness returned to San Francisco and enlisted in the San Francisco Base Hospital Unit of the United States army, and is now waiting orders to report for duty, which are likely to be issued any day. Mr. McGinness is also remembered in Carthage as being some baseball hurler on the local lots, and during a portion of his stay in the Big State he successfully held a position as pitcher for the Bay City club of the Texas league. In speaking of his travels, Mr. McGinness appears to be partial to the Hawaiian Islands and in regard to this beautiful land he says:

"There is so much of interest about the Hawaiian Islands that one finds extreme difficulty in discussing the most important points of interest. The approach to the islands is a picture of beauty never to be forgotten if made in the early morning at which time I was fortunate enough to arrive. The massive mountains rising precipitously in the back ground of Honolulu with the deep ravines and beautiful valleys on which tropical flowers and plants grow in great profusion impressed me not as a reality but more as a stage setting for an extravaganza. By far the most interesting single point of interest is the volcano of Kilauea on the island of Hawaii. It is perhaps without question the most spectacular view to be obtained in the world. Try to imagine a huge cauldron of 8 miles circumference with a seething burning bubbling mass of lava, brilliant in color, ever changing in interest, it being said that the volcano never has the same appearance twice, and then you can only have a faint idea of Kilauea in action. The impression is permanent—unforgettable. One can't help realizing their insignificance and the tremendous power within that crater.

"On the beach at Waikiki" has probably been the phrase that has been responsible for bringing more people to Honolulu than any other agency, and Waikiki is never disappointing. Old and young alike flock to Waikiki every day of the year and enjoy bathing and swimming unequaled in any part of the world. Riding or walking around at night, one never tires of listening to the natives strumming away on their Ukeleles and various string instruments peculiar to them, and when your steamer departs you are literally smothered under leis (native flowers) bands are playing, natives are singing, boys diving from the top of the steamer and for coins thrown in the water. The steamer pulls out under a shower of confetti streamers and flowers with everybody waving and singing Aloha. But the best way is to make the trip yourself. You'll not be disappointed.

GREW DESPONDENT OVER THE TROUBLE

She Looks Like Different Person Since Taking Tanlac—Gained Ten Pounds.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I was the most wretched person, I expect, you ever saw, but now I'm as happy as can be over the good that Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. Maggie Green, who resides at 1919 Avenue A, Ensley, Ala., some time ago.

"For a long time I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble," she continued, "and had grown so weak from loss of energy that I really took no interest in anything. I would suffer for hours with gas on my stomach that made me dizzy-headed and gave me palpitation of the heart. I fell off till I weighed only ninety five pounds and was so weak and run-down I couldn't do any work about the house. I was so nervous that at times I'd tremble all over and I got so cross and fretful I was not like myself at all and was growing more despondent every day."

"Nothing I took seemed to reach my trouble and I just went from bad to worse. My husband got a bottle of Tanlac for me and as soon as I began on it, I started to straighten up and began to eat and my appetite got better every day. The disagreeable fullness don't trouble me anymore after a meal and I just feel fine, in fact I don't know what it is to have a pain now. I sleep like a log at night, have gained ten pounds and everyone tells me I look like a different woman."

Tanlac is sold in Carthage exclusively by READ BROS. and in Gordonsville by GWALTNEY & WILSON.
